

ONCE IN A WHILE A GLOVE COMES ALONG THAT CHANGES EVERYTHING...

6

Reasons our Surge Fire Fighter's glove is better than the glove you're using today.

- 1 Finally, a glove that can take the heat. Our Temperbloc Kevlar® palm stands up to 650 degrees °F with no damage, whereas regular Leather gloves start to char at only 475 degrees °F. That can be the difference between staying safe or getting burned when you're in a hot situation.
- 2 Better grip, wet or dry. Most Fire Fighting gloves are tested to see how close they come to bare hand grip. Our glove actually exceeds bare hand grip by 19%! You need all the grip you can get to hold onto a hose spraying 8000 litres/minute, and the Surge delivers!
- 3 They stay lighter and drier. The Temperbloc palms don't absorb water so they don't get water logged and heavy like regular leather gloves. Your gear is heavy enough as is without having to slug around sopping wet gloves.
- 4 Double the NFPA standard for puncture resistance. Unlike many Fire Gloves which are only partly Kevlar® lined or not Kevlar® lined at all, the Surge Fire Fighter has a 100 % Kevlar® liner throughout and 2 layers of Kevlar® in the palm. They withstand up to 9 kg of puncture force, keeping you safer from sharp objects.
- 5 Better Dexterity for handling small parts and equipment. Because of the unique Temperbloc Silicone palm, the Surge Fire Fighter gloves tested 68% better than the NFPA standard requirement in dexterity tests. This can be really helpful in a fire when you have to make minor adjustments to equipment or quickly grab tools.
- 6 Like all our products, the Surge Fighter Glove is designed with quality in every stitch. It is the perfect blend of protection, fit and function.
